TWO ATTACHMENTS: BEHAVIORAL HEALTH GUIDE AND A REPORT ON RESOURCES AND STRATEGIES FOR SELF-REGULATION AND RESILIENCE
We don’t usually attach documents to these updates, but we thought you would be interested in the two attached this month.

The first is a guide to Behavioral Health access in Jackson and Josephine Counties, developed by SOELS (Southern Oregon Early Learning Services), our Coordinated Care Organizations (AllCare, Jackson Care Connect & PrimaryHealth) and a number of other regional partners and providers.

The guide is printed in both English and Spanish and provides specific instructions and contact information for accessing Behavioral Health resources for children and families. It is a fantastic resource. Please check it out, and please forward it to any and all.

The second attachment is a Report on Resources and Strategies for Student Self-Regulation & Resilience, developed by Southern Oregon Success.

As you might know, our Southern Oregon ACEs Training Team is working with all levels of education and has reached close to 11,000 people in training sessions in our region in the past two and a half years. We’ve also worked to introduce or expand trauma-informed practices to support children, families and schools. A consistent request is for additional information on resources and strategies, particularly in regard to issues around self-regulation with our kids.

We plan to continue to update this report and to continue to work with our local school districts, as well as our partners in early education, Rogue Community College and Southern Oregon University, along with our many cross-sector partners.

If you have questions or would like more information, please email peter_buckley@southernoregonsuccess.org.

Depression, anxiety, addiction, suicide ideation and school threats are increasing at an alarming rate. Many districts and communities have launched efforts to improve mental/behavioral health, expand trauma informed practices, and bolster school safety. Six state agencies are proposing budget or policy improvements (POPs), and the legislature will introduce dozens of bills. What are the most effective proposals in a limited budget scenario, and can we integrate these into a cohesive package that will work for our communities?

Policy Option Packages . . . Is there a “Top 10” list of POPs will make a difference for youth, improving outcomes AND safety?

OHA, DHS, OYA, ODE, CEO, YDC . . . Can the alphabet soup of agency plans for kids make a difference or even be integrated at all?

Are Trauma Informed Practices the missing link to better school safety, reduced absenteeism, higher graduation rates?

Can we better leverage CCOs, CTE/Stem, School Health Centers and Nurses, Oregon’s non-profits, resource officers and others to improve school safety?

What do our key legislative and agency leaders need from us? And how can we work better together?

RESILIENT COMMUNITIES: ROGUE RIVER SCHOOL DISTRICT LOOKING TO BUILD MULTI-GENERATIONAL COMMUNITY CENTER

Fueled by the vision and hard work of Rogue River Elementary School Principal Jamie Wright, the Rogue River School District has developed plans for a unique multi-generational community center that will include a school-based health center with La Clinica (open to the full community as well), a preschool, and a community coffee shop operated by students from the Rogue River Jr./Sr. High School.

S & B James Construction Management is generously contributing the design for the facility and the district is working with Rep. Duane Stark to explore funding options in the 2019 Legislative session. Stay tuned! This will be a great addition to the Rogue River community!
Creativity and community involvement are definite tools of resilience, and they will be on full display on December 8 at 7 pm and December 9 at 5 pm when RiverStars Performing Arts presents their original new play, “Candyland” at the Lorna Byrne Café Theatre.

This student-written and performed production is offered with a “pay what you can!” ticket price and promises to be a highlight of the holiday season.

RiverStars is supported by the Oregon Community Foundation, the Ford Family Foundation, 21st Century Community Learning Centers, the Collins Foundation, the Four Way Foundation and people like you!
